IT SERVICES

With more than 25 years of experience, aXseum provides full software/systems life cycle services, from initial needs assessment through operational sustainment. Our solutions improve situational awareness by aggregating data across diverse organizations and data stores and presenting this information through an intuitive interface. Providing timely, accurate, information in an easy to use way, enabling our clients to make better informed decisions. We present results through a user interface that enhances the user experience. Attention to the user experience/user interface (UX/UI) promotes acceptance and enhances the ability to visualize and readily understand the results.

Working closely with our clients, we utilize an evolutionary and iterative development process. This close working relationship creates a DevOps like environment which has been utilized to help customers move to a more effective and efficient development model achieving the functional and performance requirements necessary to meet mission objectives. Our success is due to our ability to provide skilled technical expertise who utilize proven repeatable processes and are dedicated to continuous improvement.

Effective Program Management and a mature management infrastructure makes aXseum a
